

(Left to right)
Ranger Leroy Brock and associate, John Boothe
along with Bob Fischer, lung diver, descend a glacial rock area from scene of the wreck

Ranger Brock,
who originally found the long missing B-24,
points across the lake,
indicating the northeasterly path the plane was following when it struck the high ridge that fateful night in December of 1943